Dear Wayne Sorenson:

Thank you for your letter regarding provincial decisions related to Alberta seniors. As Minister of Assisted Living and Social Services (ALSS), I welcome the opportunity to respond.

I appreciate Seniors United Now Society's advocacy on behalf of organizations in the seniors serving sector in Edmonton. As our province's population ages, the Government of Alberta recognizes the continued importance of supporting seniors, caregivers and community-based seniors-serving organizations. This remains a top priority as we continue to invest in programs and initiatives to enable seniors to age well in their homes and communities.

We are working to ensure all Albertans have access to the care they need, when and where they need it. Assisted Living Alberta will provide Albertans with a comprehensive, holistic system of care with a range of wraparound services, including medical and non-medical supports, home care, social services, community care and continuing care homes. This new approach will provide individuals and families with more options when they need care and as their needs evolve.

Seniors in Alberta also have access to a range of provincial supports as a supplement to federal programs, including financial and health benefits. For example, the Alberta Seniors Benefit can assist eligible low-income seniors with monthly living expenses. Additional assistance with health and personal supports is available through the Special Needs Assistance for Seniors program. Under this program, an eligible senior with high prescription copayments may receive annual funding to help with average monthly co-payments above $45 per month, or $90 for senior couples.

Thank you again for writing and your efforts to make Alberta a place for seniors to age well.

Sincerely,

Honourable Jason Nixon
Minister of Assisted Living and Social Services
Minister responsible for Housing
